

In Search of Perfection

I believe in you even though I know you're a lie, for nothing known is ever sure.

I look for you even though there's no one to find,
but that just makes me need you more.

I long for you even though you're only in my mind –
because outside is nothing pure, and nothing fully kind.